

ORGANIZATION

The Board of Directors is the governing body of the Association of Arkansas Counties. The Board is structured to accurately reflect total membership of the Association. Each of the nine affiliate associations is represented with two members on the AAC Board of Directors except the Coroners' Association which has one member. The Board, which meets bi-monthly, is composed of 17 members who are selected by their own respective associations.

The Executive Director is responsible for administering the Association's policies and programs. He/she selects their staff and together they work to provide Arkansas counties with the best possible service.
